Llyn Peris, Llanberis. There are two local saints at Llanberis, St. Padarn and St. Peris, and two lakes named after them—Llyn Padarn (1½ miles long) and Llyn Peris, the upper and far more beautiful one over whose sheet of fair water Dolbadarn Castle looks. The lake is very deep and used to be famous for fish, but the slate-quarry's refuse is sadly spoiling its beauty and productiveness.

Don't spoil this card put it in your book at once. This week is going so slowly. Annie has gone for her holiday
we are really going away early.
I shall be glad when Saturday comes
Much Love Edith

Dear Friend;

I received

your most welcome letter, and it finds me in good health, as I hope it leaves you. We are sailing for home on the S.S. Baltic May 12.
Will let you know when I arrive safe.
Your Friend

Llyn Peris (Llanberis) Here are two local hints: Llanberis (St. Idris) and St. Idris (two lakes named after them—Llyn Padarn (1½ miles long) and Llyn Peris), the upper one is more beautiful, or, over whose head fair water Dolbadarn Castle looks. The lake is very deep and used to be famous for fish, but the late 19th century refuse is sadly spoiling its beauty and productivity.
